

Mobile Video-Wall Commercial For Forza

Date : October 23, 2014

Morgan Hill, CA – October 22, 2014 – Volanti Displays, a provider of large display systems, today released a video commercial for the first-of-its-kind Forza mobile video-wall. The commercial highlights the unique nature of the Forza unit.

The innovative and easy to use Forza mobile video-wall provides a brilliant 94” or 110” display, packed in two rugged wheeled carts that are also used as the base and frame. Simply roll into place, release the gas-spring mechanism, and the top display and frame rises automatically. Add the lower display and plug in the wiring. With that you have a transportable video-wall solution, ready to go in a matter of minutes.

“We wanted to develop a product that was truly unique,” said James Henry, CEO of Volanti Displays. “Video-walls are not usually something that can be easily put up and taken down, with the ease and accessibility of the Forza mobile video-wall, we have changed all that.”

The mobile video-wall is ideal for meetings, trade shows, fundraisers, museums, galleries, corporate lobbies, educational venues, or anywhere you might want to engage your audience and bring a visual message to life.
